LOCAL PLAN REVIEW SET TO BE SCRAPPED

Cabinet working group recommends process to be re-started from beginning

Report by Henry James

WEST Lancs Council's review of the controversial Local Plan is expected to be scrapped and the process re-started from the beginning.

The Local Plan Cabinet Working Group met on Wednesday, September 4 and issued the recommendation "that the current Local Plan Review ceases in its entirety."

The recommendation was set to be agreed by the council cabinet last night (Tuesday) as the Champion went to press.

Following the recommendation, the Conservative group on the council pointed to the money that had been wasted on the process, while the leader of independents, Our West Lancashire, Councillor Adrian Owens welcomed the move to begin the process again.

The group also recommended that the current local plan working group be dissolved and a new "Local Plan Cabinet Working Group' be established with updated terms of reference to commence work immediately on a new Local Plan Review process."

They commented: "The Local Plan Review Preferred Options consultation generated a significant amount of feedback on the proposals, and there are a great number of matters related to a new Local Plan that need to be given time for the council to fully consider and ensure the right new Local Plan is prepared for West Lancashire.

"This includes matters relating to climate change and how the Local Plan might help address this important issue. Due to the age of parts of the current evidence base, the Local Plan Review would need to progress to submission by March 31, 2020 if it were to be taken forward, and this does not allow the time to fully consider all the matters raised by, and since, the Preferred Options consultation."

Councillor David Westley: "A real victory for common sense and local democracy."

Councillor Adrian Owens: "A massive cloud has been lifted from over heads of residents."

The Champion reported in March that the ruling Labour group at West Lancs Council had voted to abandon the controversial Local Plan and go back to the drawing board. That decision led to the resignation of cabinet member for planning, Councillor John Hodson.

The Preferred Options document included the release of 590 hectares of Green Belt for employment purposes and the building of 16,000 new homes. Many residents responded to the consultation showing their disapproval.

Reacting to the latest announcement, the Conservative group said that "the hugely negative" response by residents to last year's public consultation exercise and their poor results in May's borough elections has "forced Labour to scrap their ridiculous proposals for a 30-year Local Plan."

The Tories claimed that Labour had spent £300k on gathering an information base, mainly "reports from expensive outside consultants, to try and justify their now defunct 30-year New Local Plan that sought to build 16,000 houses on some 1,600 acres of the Green Belt."

They added: "A new information base will now have to be commissioned at a cost of a further £300k."

Councillor David Westley, Conservative group leader, said: "This issue was perhaps the biggest in my 17 years as a borough councillor and the fight represented the largest campaign mounted by the Conservative group. It resulted in a real victory for common sense and local democracy.

"The public were overwhelmingly opposed to a new 30-year Local Plan that sought to build houses to meet Merseyside's housing need on 1,600 acres of prime agricultural land.

"Labour have finally admitted defeat, yet their folly has wasted £300k that could have been spent improving essential frontline services."

Cllr. Owens commented: "This is the step we have been calling for and so we warmly welcome it. This lifts a massive cloud from over the heads of tens of thousands of local residents. Residents had responded to the consultation in record numbers and they are the people I feel delighted for.

"The fundamental direction of the previous proposals was always misplaced. Starting the process again gives us a chance to ensure West Lancashire plays its part locally in addressing climate change and other environmental matters."

Councillor Ian Rigby from Bickerstaffe, whose ward faced 6,000 new homes and 190 hectares of land lost to large warehouses, added: "This is the best possible news for residents of my ward. Going back to the drawing board gives the council the opportunity to adopt a more inclusive approach to the process. I hope that they involve more fully the community and a greater number of councillors in drawing up proposals that suit our predominantly rural borough."

Asked for comment by the Champion, the borough council issued the following statement: "This matter will be discussed at the council's cabinet on the evening of Tuesday, September 10. The council will issue details of the decision made at that meeting after it has concluded."

Commissioner urges MPs to support call for fair share of police funding for county

Report by Henry James

Police and crime commssioner Clive Grunshaw outside the Houses of Parliament.

LANCASHIRE'S Police and Crime Commissioner, Clive Grunshaw, travelled to Westminster on Monday (September 9) for face-to-face talks with MPs from the county.

The purpose of the meeting was to urge the MPs to support Mr Grunshaw's call for Lancashire to receive its fair share of any proposed additional police funding and to pressure Prime Minister, Boris Johnson into 'giving back' the 750 officers lost from the county since 2010.

The briefing gave the county's parliamentary representatives the opportunity to hear about the challenges policing in Lancashire is facing and what a 'fair share' of the proposed 20,000 additional police officers pledged by Mr Johnson could mean for Lancashire Constabulary.

The force has lost 750 police officers since 2010 - the result of more than nine years of austerity - and has had to make savings of £84m with a further £18m to be found by 2023.

Mr Grunshaw said: "I was in Westminster to update MPs on my ongoing concerns around police funding and I am calling on Boris Johnson to give Lancashire its bobbies back.

"Despite the Prime Minister promising to recruit an extra 20,000 officers across the country, crucially he has yet to provide any details on the allocation of the recruitment funding. A fair proportion of these officers must be given to Lancashire and put back where they are needed.

"Lancashire has been one of the hardest hit by austerity and I'm calling on the PM to match our ambition to recruit the 750 police officers lost since 2010.

"Whilst I welcome a pledge of £750m to begin the process of recruiting, this commitment only extends to 6,000 officers until March 2021. We need assurances about how policing will be funded in the long term and one-year gifts will not suffice.

"Police funding cannot keep coming at the expense of hard-working Lancashire council tax payers. Permanent funding needs to come from government grant increases and not from further council tax increases.

"Together with MPs, I am standing up for Lancashire to ensure we receive a fair funding settlement which is sustainable and reflects the unique circumstances that Lancashire faces as a police service."

Amusement arcade to open in Concourse unit formerly occupied by Heron Foods

A WELL-established family business is set to open a new amusement arcade in the Concourse shopping centre, creating up to 10 full and part-time jobs.

Work has already started on the new outlet for Jaybee Leisure Leigh Ltd, to be named Leisuretime, which will also feature a café selling homemade goodies and locally roasted coffee.

The licensed amusement and bingo arcade is due to open next month in unit 15a, the former Heron Foods store, and will cater for over-21s only.

The coffee shop will be accessible for all the community and will serve Tank coffee, roasted in the North West, along with breakfasts, lunches and afternoon teas.

Company director, Joe Mulhearn, who founded the business in 1980 with wife Lana, said he was looking forward to bringing the brand to Skelmersdale, adding to existing outlets in Leigh, Atherton, Rochdale and Liverpool.

He said: "We are a family business, run with the community in mind. We're from the North West and like to keep our business within the region so we can continue with a community feel at all times.

"We visit our sites daily to ensure we maintain excellent customer service and standards and this will continue when we open our fifth branch in the Concourse Shopping Centre. The fit-out is coming along really well and we're really looking forward to opening our doors to the local community."

Concourse manager, Gary Mitchell, added: "It's wonderful that a regional, family business wants to invest in Skelmersdale, bringing a new leisure facility to the town and providing local people with job opportunities.

"We've been working closely with Leisure Time as it prepares to open its doors."

This latest recruit to the Concourse follows the recent Domino's Pizza opening in the centre's atrium.

Meanwhile Leisuretime is looking to employ staff. Anyone interested in a position can email their CV to: spinningslots@btinternet.com.

MP's anger after town misses out on share of new £3.6 billion fund

ROSIE Cooper has criticised the Government for failing to include Skelmersdale on a list of 100 places eligible for support from the £3.6 billion Towns Fund.

The locations invited to develop proposals for a new generation of multi-million-pound Town Deals announced by Local Government Secretary Robert Jenrick include places with proud "industrial and economic heritage" that have not always benefitted from economic growth in the same way as more prosperous areas.

Communities, businesses and local leaders will now join forces to draw up "ambitious plans" to transform their towns' economic growth prospects with a focus on improved transport, broadband connectivity, skills and culture.

A total of 45 locations across the 'Northern Powerhouse' and 30 in the 'Midlands Engine' are among the 100 pioneers of the new Town Deals which the Government says is part of its commitment to 'level up' all regions by boosting productivity, skills and living standards.

Ignored

But although the list features neighbouring towns, including Southport, Preston and Blackpool, there was no place for Skelmersdale - leaving West Lancs MP Ms Cooper fuming.

She said: "Predictably, this Conservative Government has ignored Skelmersdale yet again and pours money into areas where they hope to retain or snap up seats in a general election.

"This money spread across the whole country is a pittance when you consider the millions of pounds which West Lancashire residents have lost through cuts in Government grants each year, the Government needs to do better - much better.

"In West Lancashire we need urgent infrastructure investment and community funding in both Ormskirk and Skelmersdale town centres, a railway station in Skelmersdale, reinstatement of the Burscough Curves, new sports centres, investment in schools, roads and the NHS, as well as ongoing funding for policing. The list is endless.

"Constituents will see this bribery for what it is and many will watch to see whether it is ever actually delivered."

Resident says 'unkempt' approach gives poor first impression to visitors

WEST Lancs Council has again been criticised about the untidy state of the area by the 'World Class For Business' sign situated on motorists' approach to Skelmersdale after leaving the M58..

The sign is aimed at highlighting the fact that the town is home to leading companies such as Walkers crisps and Hotter shoes.

But instead of 'selling' the town to visitors and potential investors, it's claimed the "unkempt" appearance of the area projects a negative image.

One local who contacted the Champion commented: "Having been a resident of Skelmersdale for more than 40 years it saddens me to see that the council cannot take the time to clean and maintain the 'World Class For Business' sign for our town as you leave the M58 motorway.

"I have contacted them many times on this subject but to no avail.

"It is so disappointing as these are the first signs that potential business people see. What would they think, I wonder? I know I would think twice about putting a business here in such a dirty, unkempt town.

"The council should clean up the signage, cut back the trees, and tidy up the overgrown vegetation. Just these three things would make a big difference."

The Champion highlighted this issue earlier this year following another complaint from a resident.

A spokesman for the borough council commented: "The area is litter-picked on a regular basis and has recently been sprayed regarding weeds. A West Lancashire Borough Council staff member will inspect the area."

The area by the 'Skelmersdale World Class For Business' sign.

Lancashire Fire and Rescue Service's 'Stinger' fire engine.

New 'Stinger' fire engine to be based in Skelmersdale

...and members of public invited to give it a name

LANCASHIRE Fire and Rescue Service (LFRS) are introducing a new fire engine into their fleet to be based in Skelmersdale - and are inviting members of the public to give it a name.

Following the success of the Stinger appliance which was added to the fleet at Blackburn following an initial trial period in 2018, the decision was made to purchase a second one.

The LFRS say the Stinger has contributed to saving lives, preventing significant fire damage to buildings and increasing firefighter safety.

The Stinger got its name due to the 45cm piercing spike that fires from the extendable arm to pierce through slate and other material to fight fires without having to commit firefighters on the ground into potentially unsafe structures.

The second Stinger features all the modifications that the Blackburn crew found necessary, as well as newer technologies and equipment. It has battery-powered road traffic collision cutting equipment, thermal imaging monitor and HD camera which can also be controlled wirelessly.

With the original Stinger remaining at Blackburn, LFRS are looking to the people of Lancashire to name 'Stinger 2' as it joins the fleet at Skelmersdale Fire Station alongside the on-call fire engine.

Chief fire officer, Justin Johnston, said: "We usually get a lot of waves when we are out and about and people wanting to visit stations so we thought that by introducing our latest fire engine publically they'd see what its capabilities are, how it will be a benefit at incidents and also enable the public to give it a warm Lancashire welcome by choosing a name for it themselves.

"The Stinger has so many features that we are looking forward to seeing some inventive names."

During the trial period at Blackburn the service's fleet and engineering team consulted with firefighters to gain operational feedback and ensure the modifications were firefighter-led.

Fleet and engineering manager, John Hargeaves, said: "We have found the product to be that worthwhile that we took the decision to purchase a second appliance which we believe is money well spent and will be a beneficial resource to the Skelmersdale and Southern Lancashire area."

The service says Stinger offers "exceptional versatility", serving as a 'regular' fire engine to transport and equip firefighters to deal with house fires, road traffic collisions and the range of emergencies likely to come their way while additionally providing a facility to jet water a distance of 80 metres onto a fire from a maximum height of 16.5 metres.

The naming competition will run on the LFRS Facebook page until September 18 and entries from all ages are welcome.

University shortlisted in two categories of HE sector 'Oscars'

EDGE Hill has been shortlisted in two categories in the prestigious Times Higher Education (THE) awards.

The Ormskirk university has been recognised in the Outstanding Library Team and Outstanding Estates Strategy categories in the awards - widely recognised as the Oscars of the higher education sector.

Staff at the library were recognised for excellence in customer service, particularly the re-shaping of front-line student support following the opening of the new £27m Catalyst building which houses the library, careers and student services.

The judges said the team have worked hard to build a new, more personal approach to library services within Catalyst, placing each student's needs and personal preferences at the heart of every decision".

Meanwhile, it was the Facilities Management team's "customer-focused culture and its positive contribution to the university's core business of attracting, recruiting and retaining students" which shone through for the judging panel in the second shortlisting.

Their ambition was to provide a more "sustainable living and working environment which is also high-quality and cost-effective, from creating energy-efficient buildings to reducing construction costs through innovative heating, lighting and waste water disposal."

Edge Hill University's Catalyst building.

Catalyst was again highlighted as testament to the university's vision to create a "visually-inspiring and sustainable environment for everyone on campus".

Deputy vice-chancellor, Steve Igoe, said: "We are delighted that Edge Hill has been shortlisted in not just one, but two of this year's Times Higher Education awards categories.

"Here at the university we are very proud of the hard work carried out by our staff and of our stunning campus which boasts innovative architecture and outstanding facilities.

"Students are at the heart of what we do so to hear that we've been shortlisted because of our commitment to exceptional services and creating the best facilities for our students to learn in feels well deserved."

The awards attract hundreds of entries from UK higher education institutes which demonstrate the talent, dedication and innovation of individuals and teams across all aspects of university life.

Winners will be announced at London's Grosvenor House Hotel on Thursday, November 28.

New landlady aims to make Busy Bee a hive of community activity

Lyndsey wants re-opened pub to cater for families

Report by Henry James

Lyndsey Davis (centre) with Richie and Sam Duhaney from Richie's Rasta Shack who will be offering Caribbean-style food outside the Busy Bee.

THE landlady of a Skelmersdale pub that has re-opened after 18 months is aiming to make it a hub for the local community again.

Lyndsey Davis is the new mine host at the Busy Bee - 15 years after she started her first job as a barmaid at the Tilcroft hostelry.

And the 33-year-old's family connections to the pub go even further back as her late grandfather, Peter White was one of its first customers and was known as the 'regular, regular'!

Lyndsey is aiming to make Busy Bee a focus for community-based events starting with a fundraiser for cancer charity Macmillan on Friday, September 27. Running from 11am to 11pm it will feature a disco and a raffle with prizes donated by the community.

She said: "I am hoping this will officially be the start of a new era for the Busy Bee. I am really excited to be taking over the pub and the aim is to cater for families with children.

"Many local people suffered when it shut as other pubs are too far away. This is a pub that is needed on the estate."

Lyndsey also plans to hold a children's disco on Fridays from 5 to 7pm. There will be a nominal £1 entry charge and children under seven must be accompanied by an adult.

"Hopefully this will provide somewhere for children to go and help to keep them off the streets."

Lyndsey's first job at the age of 18 was pulling pints at the Busy Bee where her grandad, Peter White, was a regular and long-standing customer who enjoyed a pint of mild and a cigar every night at 8.45pm. When the smoking ban came into force he simply retreated to the beer garden for his smoke.

"Sadly grandad passed away three years ago but he is still well remembered locally.

"He was one of the first people to drink in the Busy Bee and they would have a pint waiting on the bar for him.

"His wife, Jean was a local councillor in Skelmersdale for many years."

Packaging company announces key appointment after 'significant investment'

SKELMERSDALE-based retail-ready packaging company TrakRap has appointed Graham Fox as business development manager.

The appointment follows a 'significant investment' which enabled the company to expand its operation at Gorsey Place, East Gillibrands.

Graham has more than 23 years' experience across a wide variety of roles in the packaging industry and was most recently employed as sales manager for shrink-wrap specialist, Marden Edwards.

At TrakRap his role will involve identifying prospective sales leads and introducing the company's innovative end-of-line packaging system to customers to support its ambitious growth plans, which have been boosted by a £1.27m investment secured recently through a Northern Powerhouse funding programme.

The TrakRap system is a low carbon, low plastic alternative to shrink-wrapping that uses a 100% recyclable stretch film to wrap products for transit for manufacturers of fast-moving consumer goods supplying supermarkets and retailers in the UK. The system reduces users' carbon footprints by as much as 70% through lower CO2e emissions and significantly reduces plastic and energy consumption.

Graham said: "TrakRap's low carbon, end-of-line machinery is raising the bar for packaging companies that are serious about saving the environment and I'm delighted to play a part in its growth.

Graham Fox is the new business development manager at TrakRap.

"The opportunity to join such an innovative, forward-thinking business was impossible to turn down and I am looking forward to helping customers increase efficiency and add value to their organisations by reducing plastic waste and CO2e emissions."

TrakRap chief executive, Martin Leeming, said: "Graham's in-depth understanding of packaging systems and the packaging industry in general will be a huge asset for us and will help us massively reduce the carbon footprint and cost of packaging for food and drink manufacturers supplying the UK's major supermarkets."

Hospital open day a ‘fantastic’ success

OFFICIALS at Southport and Ormskirk Hospital NHS Trust say the open day at Ormskirk Hospital on Saturday, September 7 was a “fantastic” success.

More than 400 visitors - including West Lancs MP Rosie Cooper and the borough’s Deputy Mayor, Councillor Terry Aldridge - took the opportunity to look around the x-ray department, theatres and maternity, children’s and orthopaedics wards.

Meanwhile a ‘menopause pop-up’ event before the main open day was attended by nearly 100 women, all keen to speak to consultant Dr Paula Briggs, the trust’s menopause expert.

Blood bike volunteers, local fire and police officers also went along to talk about how the services work together.

Proud

Children were given the chance to try out basic life-saving skills and key-hole surgery, while the X-ray department had a long queue of toys needing their ‘injuries’ checked out before being taken to children’s outpatients for a plaster cast and health check!

The trust’s deputy chief executive, Therese Patten, said: “What a fantastic day! The sun shone, the crowds had a great time and I was incredibly proud of all our hard-working staff, of all who did an amazing job at showing off our hospital and the excellent services we offer.

“We had a recruitment event running alongside the open day, and managed to hire five registered nurses, which is great as we are still pushing to hire more than 100 extra nurses as soon as we can.

“Huge thanks to all that came along and all who worked to make it happen - can’t wait to do it all again at Southport next year!”

Rosie Cooper said: “The open day was a great success with the trust continuing to improve its service and engagement with the community it serves.

“I was also asked to take part in the formal opening and rededication of the baby garden at the Ormskirk Hospital site.

“I am aware from my time as a hospital chair at the Women’s in Liverpool just how upsetting and life-changing the loss of a baby through miscarriage, neonatal or postnatal can be.

“Support for grieving families at this time is essential and providing places of reflection and remembrance such as this garden are just some of the ways I know Southport and Ormskirk Hospital are giving that support.”

‘Positive feedback’ after launch of new cancer support group

ORGANISERS of a new support group to help anyone in West Lancashire affected by cancer have reported ‘a huge amount of positive feedback’ following its inaugural meeting.

The Macmillan Aughton Cancer Support Group, at Christ Church Ministry Centre in Long Lane, will now meet on the second Friday of every month from 9.30am to 11.30am.

A total of 21 people attended the group’s launch in August to find out how the Macmillan Information & Support Service in West Lancs can support anyone affected by cancer, either directly or as a carer, colleague, family member or friend.

Maggi Bradley, practice nurse from Aughton Surgery, attended the first session and will be a key member of the group. She will be on hand at future meetings to answer GP-related questions.

Macmillan’s Information and Support Service Assistant in West Lancs, Jodie Taylor, said: “Our first Aughton Cancer Support Group was really well attended, and the session received a huge amount of positive feedback. This group will be key in helping to bridge the gap for people who are not able to attend the Macmillan Information & Support Centre in Skelmersdale.”

Topics discussed on the day included the national cancer pathway, and what people should expect from health services, and an overview of Macmillan’s work within the community and how they support people living with and beyond cancer.

A variety of guest speakers are planned for future meetings. The North West Ambulance Service Specialist Community Paramedic and a representative of West Lancashire’s ‘Move More’ programme will attend the September meeting providing an opportunity to sign up.

Move More helps people with a diagnosis of cancer to find effective ways to stay active, no matter where they are on their cancer journey, including those who have since completed treatment.

There are also plans to deliver wellbeing courses, including mindfulness and the Coventry University/Macmillan HOPE (Help Overcome Problems Effectively) programme, a free six-week course which enables people who have or have had cancer to get on with their lives.

The service also runs other groups including the Patient Support Group on the first Monday of every month and the Carers Support Group on the second Tuesday of every month, both from 1.30 to 3pm at the Macmillan Information & Support Centre, Concourse Shopping Centre, Skelmersdale

For further information, or to request a full assessment, call 01695 656533. Alternatively, you can visit the Macmillan Centre at the Concourse which is open weekdays from 1 to 4.30pm. No appointments are needed.

Charity makes £1,750 donation to soup kitchen

A CHARITY set up to help alleviate poverty has donated £1,750 to Southport Soup Kitchen to help volunteers continue their work in supporting the homeless.

Trustee of the Doreen Greenlees Discretionary Will Trust, Michael Prendergast of Dickinson Parker Hill Solicitors in Ormskirk, visited the soup kitchen to see for himself the work it does.

Michael said: "One of the primary reasons the Doreen Greenlees Discretionary Will Trust was set up was to alleviate poverty in the local area and the fantastic work being done by the volunteers at Southport Soup Kitchen is something the charity is keen to support.

"Since April 2015, the trust has awarded £8,250 to Southport Soup Kitchen and we are pleased to see the funds being put to such good use."

Established in May 2002, Southport Soup Kitchen has been helping those in need.

Maria Tumons from the kitchen said: "We are delighted to receive the support of another local charity and the funds we receive will go directly to helping those in need in the local area."

Lancashire's Police and Crime Commissioner, Clive Grunshaw, and his deputy Chris Webb at the launch of the 'Backing Lancashire' campaign.

Police chief says figures show force is 'Backing Lancashire'

Report by Kenny Parker

LANCASHIRE'S Police and Crime Commissioner says he has re-affirmed his commitment to his 'Backing Lancashire' campaign after the release of figures showing that £62m of the police budget has been invested into the county through procurement since 2017.

Clive Grunshaw says that this means that around 54% of all money spent by the force through suppliers has been put back into Lancashire businesses and people. For the two years prior to 2017, the investment in the county was £30.5m.

The commissioner's Social Value Policy was brought in during 2017 with support from Lancashire Constabulary to ensure that all procurement and commissioning activity maximises social, economic and environmental benefit.

And he says the policy has had an impact on contracts of a range of value, from the development of the new West Division Headquarters in Blackpool to the delivery of hay to the police mounted division.

As well as monetary value, it takes into account other elements such as location, environmental factors, whether an organisation pays the real Living Wage and if the contract will create or sustain jobs and apprenticeships in the county.

Benefits

The commissioner says the "Backing Lancashire' campaign aims to highlight the benefits of this investment into the county and encourage other businesses and organisations to commit to doing the same wherever possible.

Mr Grunshaw said: "This amount of investment back into the people and businesses of our county highlights the power that putting Lancashire first wherever possible when it comes to spending on good or services can have and is why I work closely with Lancashire Constabulary to ensure we are 'Backing Lancashire' while still delivering value for money.

"Creating safe and confident communities is a key priority in my Police and Crime Plan and thats why my 'Backing Lancashire' campaign supports the work that the force does to put money back into the county by always taking into account the social value of any contract.

"From the West Division Headquarters new-build through all of our procurement at every value, I'm really pleased that my office and Lancashire Constabulary are playing such a key role, providing opportunities for local people."

New support service to provide care at home

Virgin says initiative will help reduce hospital admissions and ease pressure on accident and emergency teams

Michelle Lee.

VIRGIN Care says patients at risk of being admitted to hospital in West Lancashire will benefit from a new service providing care to them in their own homes.

The short intensive support service (SISS), run by Virgin Care in partnership with West Lancashire Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG), will launch on Tuesday, October 1.

The company says it will help make a difference to frail, older people and those with long-term conditions who would prefer to be treated at home in a familiar environment rather than being taken in to hospital and also help to reduce pressure on accident and emergency teams.

Ambulance staff, GPs and other healthcare professionals will be able to refer patients to the multi-disciplinary SISS team, which is led by advanced nurse practitioners and includes physiotherapy, occupational therapy and support work staff.

The team will provide care to a patient at home for up to 72 hours, up to six times a day, helping to stabilise their condition and avoid an emergency admission to hospital.

SISS will be fully integrated with other health, social care and voluntary sector services to ensure a seamless package of care for each patient during and after the 72 hours; supporting them in a fast recovery and in continuing to live independently.

Michelle Lee, managing director of Virgin Care in West Lancashire, said: "We are delighted to be working with the CCG to continue to develop services that make a real difference to people in West Lancashire. We will also be working closely with ambulance staff, GPs and other healthcare professionals to identify those at most risk of admission to hospital and those in need of this new service. We look forward to seeing the benefits this can bring."

Claire Heneghan, chief nurse and board member of NHS West Lancashire Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG), added: "Our aim is to develop and enhance community and local walk-in and out of hours' services, helping to prevent avoidable acute hospital attendance, relieving pressure on such a vital resource.

"When the CCG created our vision for joined-up care, we promised our community truly integrated care and the new service is a great example of that vision. We will monitor the effectiveness of this service and listen to patient feedback as the service is implemented."

Charity to offer free sessions on benefits available and how to claim

A LOCAL charity that provides expert advice in welfare rights is set to launch a short course offering free sessions to help West Lancs residents build their understanding of what benefits are available and how they can claim.

Organised by South West Lancashire Independent Community Advice Network (SWLICAN) the Know Your Rights course will be held on the third Wednesday of each month starting on September 25 at the Evermoor Hub, Birleywood, Skelmersdale .

Sessions will run from 11am to 2.30pm and will include lunch and refreshments, plus additional mentoring support where needed.

The course will cover a wide range of benefits such as Personal Independence Payment (PIP), Disability Living Allowance (DLA) and Employment and Support Allowance (ESA).

It is suitable for carers, support staff, community group representatives who signpost and help members get the right help, volunteers and those considering a career in welfare rights advice and for individuals who want more information for themselves and their families.

Senior adviser at SWLICAN, Jimmy McDermott, said: " We expect places to fill up quickly, so please get in touch early to avoid disappointment".

To book your place or for further details call South West Lancs Independent Community Advice Network on 01695 726269 or email swlican2014@gmail.com.

Our native red squirrels cannot survive if the grey 'invaders' are not controlled

I READ with dismay the one-sided report (Champion, September 4) concerning the protest by campaigners over grey squirrel control.

That red squirrels can still be found across Northern Merseyside and West Lancashire is largely due to the hard work by teams of conservation organisations, dedicated volunteers and individuals households in protecting the red squirrels and their environment.

I am saddened that this hard work could be put at risk based upon easily disprovable misinformation

Red squirrels were, until as recently as the 1990s, the squirrel in West Lancashire and North Merseyside and they were a common site in parks and gardens. They have survived the urbanisation of the area and the wholesale slaughter by previous generations and they would be thriving across the whole region now were it not for the threat posed by the encroachment of the imported American grey squirrel and the squirrel pox carried by them.

That they are still thriving in Formby, Freshfield and Ainsdale, and expanding ever further towards places like Lydiate, is due in part to the remarkable resilience of these animals and the hard work of individuals and conservation organisations.

This also exposes the erroneous claims that reds are hampered by the loss of habitat, as it is well established that red squirrels can thrive in urban and suburban environments, as well as broadleaf and pine forests .

The sad truth is that native red squirrel cannot survive where grey squirrels dominate the food supply and pass on a deadly virus. This is another established fact that those same protesters chose to ignore.

We cannot draw lines across the countryside and expect greys and reds not to move across them, and we cannot expect red squirrels to evolve resistance when the disease is invariably fatal.

If grey squirrels are not controlled in North Merseyside and West Lancashire, our reds will become extinct within a few years.

I would hope that anyone who values wildlife and the natural world feels the same sense of obligation as I do, to support the native red squirrel as it fights for its survival again in yet another battle against human indifference and misinformation.

Peter Muldoon, Ainsdale.

Council need to do something about hopeless situation with brown bin collection service

I AGREE entirely with Michael Barker (Letters, August 28) about the absolutely hopeless situation we face regarding the delay in collecting the brown bin even though payment has been made retrospectively.

Obviously it takes our council weeks to rearrange collections whilst normal people can make arrangements to pay within seconds of seeing the stickers on the bins.

I frequently walk the grandchildren to St Teresa's School and find it increasingly difficult to avoid the nettles along Dingle Road and also when walking to the cemetery at Roby Mill.

No doubt they will be cleared before the children go back to school after the holidays (not sure which year they will eventually get round to doing something about it).

Just what do we pay rates for?

Time to privatise the council? At least the employees would understand the real world.

However, please do not sell out to Virgin 'don't care'.

Maurice Baxter, by email.

This extension of Blue Badge scheme will just make it easier to abuse

I WOULD like to object to the extension of the Blue Badge scheme to people with mental health problems.

The present scheme which allows people with physical problems is already abused and the extension to people with mental health problems will make it even easier to abuse.

One of the results of this will be a further denial of income to local authorities.

It is typical of the Government's obsession with giving in to the motorist lobby and is in contrast to them draging their feet on the problem of parking on pavements.

This is another cynical attempt to land other organisations with the loss of income, such as passing to the BBC TV free licencses and reducing rents on social housing.

In the latter case the Government saves money on housing benefits local authorities lose money

J. M. Berry, Aughton.

Move to stop erecting stalls will lead to demise of market

RE: The council's decision to stop erecting the stalls for Thursday and Saturday markets, the reason given is to bring it in line with other market towns.

Really?

I think the real reason behind this is because once their grand plan for the new leisure centre on Coronation Park is up and running there will be nowhere for the frames to be stored.

This decision will see the demise of Ormskirk Market and will have a negative effect on the town itself.

B. A., Ormskirk, details supplied.

Here's wishing Jim many more years of doggy companionship

MY wife and I always enjoy reading Jim Sharpe's column in the Champion, especially the exploits of Tina and Cinders.

We too have two dogs, Shetland sheepdogs Danny (10) and Paddy (8), both of whom are sable and white and bear a good resemblance to the picture at the head of Jim's column.

The recent column about 'playing God' with your pet struck a chord with us as recently we decided to have Paddy neutered (a nicer word than castrated).

This will hopefully calm him down a bit and reduce some of his male dominant and territorial beahviour, both trying it on with Danny and with other dogs in the street.

The signs so far, after a couple of weeks, are some change but a way to go yet.

The vet has told us that it takes a couple of months for his hormones to fully reduce.

We do hope Tina's health continues to improve and together with Cinders, you can have many more years of love and companionship from your special friends who have obviously found themselves the perfect billet.

Nick Humphries.

What happened to councillors serving community without thought of payment?

I NOTE that councillors' allowances range from a few thousand pounds a year to £20,000-plus.

I remember when local councillors were local shopkeepers and businesspeople who wished to give back to the local area to benefit local people without a thought to payment.

In the meantime the gutter weeds and pavements in Springfield Road, and from what I see via letters to this paper, in a lot of other areas of Aughton, are still unpassable.

David Palin, Aughton.

The meat and dairy industry is planet's biggest polluter

IN response to the letter by 'Ex-driver' (September 4) headed 'It's time to put survival of the planet above worship of the car.'

The writer goes on to say: "This means that we must change the ways we live." Yes, indeed we must!

But I would like to confirm that the writer of this letter is a vegan, as strangely it wasn't mentioned. Or do they support the biggest polluter on the planet - the meat and dairy industry - three times a day?

Julie Hilton, by email.

Chancellor's nonsense tale worthy of Carroll

I AM pleased that yesterday (September 4) the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sajid Javid, announced the end of austerity.

In the light of this I look forward to the closing of food banks as they will no longer be necessary.

I also look forward to the Foreign Secretary announcing the end of war and the Home Secretary announcing the end of crime!

Alice, Wonderland, details supplied.

Football pitches are a dangerous disgrace

MY husband and I went to watch our grandson play football in the Skelmersdale league today and were stressed by the state of the pitches. They were all a disgrace.

How one of the children (and there are 100s of young boys and girls there) didn't break an ankle or a leg I'll never know.

Why aren't they mowed in time for the Sunday league? I know money is tight at the moment but if the council are letting us rent their pitches then surely they have a responsibility to keep them playable?

Yvonne Macdonald, by email.

'Outstanding' student wins national award

EDGE Hill geology with physical geography student Amanda Hughes has received an Institute of Quarrying National Student Award.

The 20-year-old from Ormskirk was nominated by her tutor, Dr Joaquin Cortes, as the best performing second-year student on her course.

Dr Cortes said: "I have been teaching geology for more than 15 years in the UK, USA and South America and in my career, I have met only a few students of Amanda's calibre.

"When I was contacted by the Institute of Quarrying to nominate an appropriate recipient for their national student award, I did not hesitate to nominate her.

"When she started studying with us it quickly became clear that she was someone outstanding. And from a personal point of view, she is also pleasant, amicable, compassionate and kind, making her respected and esteemed by her classmates."

Amanda receives a certificate of achievement and two years' free student membership and magazine subscription to the Institute of Quarrying. Other benefits include the opportunity of getting invited to networking events and professional help with career development.

'Outstanding' student Amanda Hughes on a field trip to Tenerife.

She said: "I feel honoured and extremely grateful for the nomination and for the recognition of my hard work over the past year.

"And I'm extremely grateful to the university's geography and geology department for their continued support and encouragement."

Ormskirk Hospital - volunteers are wanted to help with annual inspections of patient services there and at Southport Hospital.

Volunteers wanted to help with hospitals' annual assessments

SOUTHPORT and Ormskirk Hospital NHS Trust is seeking to recruit volunteers to help with their annual inspections of patient services at both hospitals.

The PLACE (Patient-Led Assessments of the Care Environment) inspections involve local people assessing the hospital environments and how they support clinical care.

They also assess things such as the privacy and dignity given to patients, food, cleanliness, building maintenance and the environment supports the care of people with dementia.

Corporate matron Claire Beck said: "A good environment matters to patients just as much as the clinical care they receive.

"That's why having fresh pairs of eyes take a look is so important to helping us make improvements to them."

Volunteers must be aged 18 years or older and need to be available for a half-day's training ahead of the PLACE assessments.

These will take place over two days at both hospitals on the second or third week of October.

Any expenses incurred are covered including parking, lunch and refreshments.

Anyone intersted in taking part is asked to email Facilities Manager Sue Pearson at sue.pearson2@nhs.net or write to her at Southport and Formby District General Hospital, Town Lane, Kew, Southport, Merseyside, PR8 6PN, by Friday, September 27.

Rail buff Jon all fired up for small screen appearance

Train lover who started as a teenage volunteer on Burscough farm miniature railway to feature in TV documentary

Report by Danielle Thompson

A RAIL enthusiast who first took up the hobby as a volunteer with the Windmill Farm miniature railway in Burscough will feature in a new TV documentary following the transportation of a steam locomotive ahead of its appearance hauling the Polar Express.

Jon Kerr, who works as a signal support technician for Network Rail, will be featured in episode five of the factual series Train Truckers on UKTV's Yesterday channel on Thursday, September 26.

The episode will see a locomotive travel from its base at Cheddleton on the Churnet Valley Railway to the Telford Steam Railway, where it will haul a re-creation of the 'Polar Express Specials' throughout December.

A qualified locomotive fireman, 31-year-old Jon, who splits his time between hometown Southport and Somerset, is part of the team who help maintain and operate the locomotive.

High point

The film crew joined him for a day on the footplate at Churnet Valley Railway as he prepared the locomotive for a day's services before taking shots from inside the cab alongside driver, Howard Robinson.

Jon started volunteering at Windmill Farm Railway in Fish Lane, Burscough at the age of 14 and railways became a major part of his life, reaching a high point in March this year when he was selected to fire the legendary Flying Scotsman during its visit to the Swanage Railway in Dorset where he also volunteers.

After an initial nine-month work experience placing with Merseyrail Electrics in 2006, he went on to forge a career within the rail industry and is now employed as a signal support technician for Network Rail, covering signalling renewal projects in the North-West.

Jon on the Flying Scotsman.

‘Don’t suffer in silence’ message to people experiencing mental health issues

TO mark World Suicide Prevention Day this week (September 10) health professionals from Lancashire Care are encouraging people experiencing difficulties with mental health to seek support.

According to figures issued by the Office for National Statistics for 2018, the suicide rate in the UK is at its highest in 16 years with the number raising for the first time since 2013.

With this in mind, Lancashire Care NHS Foundation Trust’s Wellbeing and Mental Health Helpline and Mindsmatter Talking Therapy Service is encouraging people experiencing low mood or distress to get in touch.

The trust’s Wellbeing and Mental Health Helpline provides a listening ear for people across Lancashire who may be feeling lonely, stressed or experiencing mental health problems and thoughts of suicide.

The helpline operators offer emotional support by using listening skills to enable people to make their own choices about how their health care needs may be met. If a caller rings and they are having feelings of suicide, staff will intervene and get appropriate help.

The Wellbeing and Mental Health Helpline is also rolling out a texting service across Lancashire that will provide support to people who find it difficult talking on the phone by providing emotional support via text messages. This is presently being rolled out in the Fylde Coast area and will eventually cover the whole of Lancashire.

The helpline is open Monday to Friday 7pm to 11pm and Saturday and Sunday 12 midday to 12 midnight. For more information about the Wellbeing and Mental Health Helpline, call them on 0800 915 4640 or visit www.lancashirecare.nhs.uk/Mental-Health-Helpline.

The texting service can be contacted by texting HELLO to 07860 022 846. Lines are open Monday to Friday 7 to 11pm and Saturday and Sunday noon to Midnight. For more information visit www.lancashirecare.nhs.uk/texting-service.

The West Tower team celebrating their latest award.

Towering achievement!

Aughton wedding venue voted best in county for ninth year in succession

A 19th-century former country house in West Lancashire has been voted as the best wedding venue in the county in a regional awards - for an incredible ninth year in a row!

The West Tower, nestled in eight acres of grounds in Aughton, was awarded the Best Wedding Venue in Lancashire at the recent County Brides North West Wedding Awards.

Finalists were voted for by previous brides and grooms who were married in the past two years.

More than 7,500 votes were counted on the evening to celebrate the leading wedding suppliers in the North West, including venues, florists and photographers.

Couples choosing West Tower have the option of getting married either outside in the secluded garden or inside in the elegant ballroom while accommodating up to 143 daytime and 250 evening guests.

The venue also recently added nine stable rooms to increase the total number of bedrooms to 27.

General manager, Stephanie Beqo, said: “The team are passionate about weddings, with everyone dedicated to ensuring that each happy couple has the day of their dreams. They are all very proud to work at West Tower and it certainly shows with the comments and recommendations they receive. They are all absolutely delighted to have received this award for their customer service once again.

“We are absolutely thrilled to have won and I’d like to thank everyone who voted for us.”

OWL claims delays to borough weedkilling programme risk damaging highways

Report by Kenny Parker

Pictures of roadside weeds taken by Our West Lancashire.

INDEPENDENT political group Our West Lancashire says that delays spraying weedkiller have led to increased damage to the borough's highways.

After OWL leader, Councillor Adrian Owens, tabled a question at the last borough council meeting about the late weed-spraying this year, council chiefs admitted there had been a delay but said it was due to the need to re-tender the contract.

Cllr. Owens said: "Annual plants form an important part of our biodiversity in our local countryside, including highway verges. However, when they grow in road channels, around traffic islands and between paving, they can cause damage to the structure and affect normal water flow potentially causing further damage.

"They also give our borough an uncared-for appearance.

"This delay in tackling weeds in paved areas and on our road surfaces is concerning as the risk of damage to the highway increases. The council say that the second spray should now be taking place but we are still getting reports of areas where the first spray hasn't been completed, so there appears to be further delay. The service this year hasn't been good enough and to blame the delays on having to re-tender the contract begs further questions about the planning and organisation of this service."

A council spokesperson said: "West Lancashire Borough Council takes the appearance of the borough very seriously and the Council Plan shows that the authority is ambitious for West Lancashire to have a good-quality, clean environment.

"The borough council carries out weed spraying on West Lancashire's public highways on behalf of Lancashire County Council, the highways authority. The agreement specifies this work is to be undertaken in May/June and August/September.

"This year the first application was slightly delayed due to our weed contract having to be re-tendered. The first application began in the week commencing July 15 with the second spray being undertaken in August/September as planned.

"It should be noted that inclement weather conditions can cause delays to the programme delivery.

"The mechanical sweeping will be undertaken as scheduled to follow the weed spraying to remove dead weeds and detritus."

County council chief says 'good progress' has been made on cutting deficit - despite uncertainty over funding

MEMBERS of Lancashire County Council's cabinet have been updated about the authority's financial position.

The report to the cabinet presents a forecast underspend position of £0.506m for 2019/20 following the first quarter of the financial year, which represents 0.06 per cent of the agreed budget of £802m.

However, it also provides an updated medium term financial strategy, but highlights the uncertainties surrounding future funding for local government which have made it difficult to forecast what will happen in the medium to long term.

Despite these challenges, the authority says a revised forecast has been prepared which anticipates the financial gap for 2020/21 has reduced to £5.895m. This figure has been based on assumptions that still need to be confirmed, but at this stage are the best estimates available.

In the longer term the forecast gap by 2022/23 is expected to increase by £17.429m to £64.755m, primarily due to increased pay costs and service demand pressures, such as transport costs and increased children's social care requirements.

At this stage because of the level of uncertainty, council chiefs say it has not been possible to meaningfully extend the forecast into 2023/24. The report was also published prior to the spending review on September 4 which set out spending plans for the 2020/21 financial year only, with a multi-year spending review to follow in 2020.

The review announced a number of changes to departmental spending levels, including additional funding for adult social care, the potential impact of which on medium-term financial strategy position is being analysed and changes will be reflected when the updated position is next reported to cabinet later in the financial year.

Council leader, Councillor Geoff Driver, said: "There is currently an unprecedented amount of uncertainty relating to future funding across local government which has made it difficult to forecast our long-term position. However good progress has already been made in cutting the £200m deficit, helping us to balance our books.

""Like all councils we face significant financial pressures but it is our aim to make sure the council is on a stable footing, not just now but into the future."

County Councillor Geoff Driver.

Sorry, my crafty plan was foiled by village post office closure...

OK, ok, - yes I have done it again! If you missed the Dog column last week it was all - well, very nearly all - my own fault.

Once again you see I have been away exploring the wonders of the Norfolk and Suffolk Broads, and again I got back home too late to write an article for last week's paper.

I do though have an explanation. You see, as I have explained before, I depend on the generosity of Birkenhead YMCA to transport me and my 'crew' of dogs Tina and Cinders to and from my Norfolk boatyard and it was only after I had already begun my holiday on my lovely old wooden motor cruiser, Manxman that I learned that because their Ford Galaxy would not be available on the date we had agreed that I realised I would not be home early enough.

But I thought up a crafty plan hopefully to keep my editor and readers happy. My big idea was to write (long hand) a carefully-crafted 'Letter from Norfolk', telling of my nautical adventures and post it to Southport in time for last week's edition.

As the poet wrote though 'The best laid schemes o' mice an' men, Gang aft agley' and this one 'ganged' more than most.

You see, an important part of my strategy hung on the riverside village of Reedham and its post office. My plan was to moor at Reedham on the Monday where I could buy an envelope and ensure that a suitable quantity of stamps were stuck on to secure delivery before the following Friday. Then, sit down, write the piece, post it at the post office and Bob's your uncle!

What could possibly go wrong? Well, the whole plan started immediately to unravel when I discovered that the village post office (which used to double as a small sort of general store) had transformed itself into 'Ye Olde Tea Room' - which also sold sweets, ice cream and silly hats - but not envelopes, stamps or advice on postage. The postbox outside was still useable, but that was about all.

"Oh bother"(or something to that effect) I thought. Too late by then to travel further up river that day and anyway I had no clear idea about where an operative post office (or stationers) could be found anywhere near.

So I consoled myself with some excellent fish and chips and considered my next strategy, which came to an abrupt end with my failure to locate a post office the following day which meant anything I did would now reach the editorial office too late. In fact, the closure of small POs seems endemic in Norfolk, as it is even here in rapidly-expanding Maghull for that matter.

And in giving this long-winded explanation of my failure I have used a goodly proportion of the space my 'Letter from 'Norfolk' should have taken too. Bother!

In fact, the dogs and I had a splendid break and judging from what I have heard and the weather forecasts, my fortnight or more of genuinely hot and sunny days was not shared with folk in the North West.

Manxman was admired at the wooden boat show we attended and drew many very complimentary comments from other holidaymakers. And Tina and Cinders too did their part in starting many happy chats with fellow boatists with dogs.

Many people take cruising holidays on the Broads because they can't bear to be parted from their canine chums with the result that there genuinely seems to be far more dogs than children on the boats, even during the school summer break.

I met many old friends and made several more and only once succumbed to 'river rage' when one idiot tried to leave his mooring with a strong tide and scraped his (fortunately, rubber-covered) toe rail along the pristine side of Manxman. It took quite a lot of effort, but happily all came off in the end.

Oddfellows band together to raise brass for air ambulance charity

LOCAL members of the Oddfellows, one of the UK's largest and oldest friendly societies, hosted a brass band concert to raise £755.64 for the North West Air Ambulance Charity (NWAA).

The performance, by touring national band, Oddfellows Brass, was hosted jointly by the Southport & Ormskirk and the Mersey branches of the group in aid of the charity which supports the provision of emergency helicopter recovery, treatment and transfers for people who are critically ill or injured and unable to be reached by road.

Members of the two branches went along to NWAA's headquarters at the Barton airport in Eccles to present the cheque and also enjoyed a tour of the base.

Regional fundraiser for the NWAA Charity, Jennifer Barry, said: "We're extremely grateful to the local Oddfellows members who are working hard to raise awareness and support for the work that we do. Ensuring our helicopters, pilots, doctors and paramedics can provide top-quality treatment and access up-to-date equipment is of huge importance to the many communities throughout North West."

Bonita Hesketh, branch secretary for the Ormskirk and Southport District Oddfellows, added: "Oddfellows Brass is an extremely talented group of musicians, and their concerts are always a huge hit with our members. To work with them and the Mersey Oddfellows to raise such a wonderful amount of money for the North West Air Ambulance Charity was an absolute pleasure."

Edge Hill academic launches national new arts network

THIS month saw the launch of a new arts resilience network 'art does not get you a job' created by Edge Hill University's Reader in Literature, Dr Mari Hughes-Edwards.

The network, whose members include the internationally-renowned ballet Lorent, The Royal Society of Literature, The Royal Museums, Greenwich, and artist Stephen Raw who designed the new £2 Armistice coin, was launched at The Poetry Society in London on Thursday, September 5.

Aimed at encouraging inter-disciplinary collaboration across the arts sector, the network is open to groups and independent creatives from sectors spanning dance, drama, music, art, museum, publishing and bookselling industries.

Mari, said: "I am delighted that so many cultural groups and creatives want to join the network. It shows how many of us are dedicated to working together to get into careers in the wider arts, and stay in them.

"Current group members also include The Open Eye Gallery, The Cornerstone Gallery and Manchester University Press, as well as Edge Hill's Institute for Creative Enterprise, Institute for Social Responsibility and GenSex, the university's gender and sexuality research group.

"However, we are just as committed to working with independent creatives as we believe that every single one of us has the power to shape their arts future.

She added: "The network was inspired by a national broadcaster's tweet: 'art doesn't get you a job' during a 2018 radio interview.

"The network and I are determined to prove him wrong. Now more than ever, the arts are minimalised and trivialised, and we hope that the network will help ensure the survival of creative industries in a time of global austerity and marginalisation."

Dr Mari Hughes-Edwards.

Bringing together wider community engagement projects on a local, national and international level, 'art does not get you a job' will also host one-off events and lobbying activities and generate funding and income for new initiatives such as a mentoring scheme.

The scheme will see established creatives mentoring early and mid-career artists and fostering new projects.

More information about 'art does not get you a job' can be found on Facebook at https://www.facebook.com/artdoesnotgetyoua-job; on Twitter at https://twitter.com/artdoesnotgety1 or by email to artdoesnotgetyouajob@gmail.com.

Rain can't put a dampener on festival

ORGANISERS have declared this year's Parbold Street Festival of Arts and Music a success - despite poor weather resulting in a slight downturn in numbers attending.

Staged over Saturday and Sunday, August 31 and September 1, the festival featured 14 venues and two stages with all types of music from brass bands and choirs, to folk, country, pop and rock.

Other highlights included parades telling the story of 'The Legend of Parbold Hill and a toy duck race on the canal.

One of the organisers, Dave Reid, said: "Numbers were slightly down because of pretty heavy showers on Saturday morning. After a quiet start though the festival came to life for the parade at 2pm and continued well until around 7.30pm.

"Sunday was well attended and the duck race was watched by hundreds of people."

Chance to nominate your local for Parliament Pub of the Year award

ROSIE Cooper is calling on tipplers in the borough to put foward their favoutite watering holes for a national award.

Organised by the House of Commons All-Party Group on Pubs, the Parliamentary Pub of the Year Awards aim to celebrate 'community locals' and each of the 650 MPs is invited to nominate a hostelry from their consituency.

The main criteria for nominated pubs is that they are great at what they do - this might be the range of beers or food provided, dedication to serving the local community or specialising in music or sports.

To decide which venue should go forward to represent the borough, Ms Cooper is asking customers to put forward their preferred pub with the nominee to be selected following a poll on the West Lancs MP's website.

She said: "I want local people to nominate their favourite pub in West Lancashire and the most popular choice will go forward as our local entrant for Parliamentary Pub of the Year Awards.

"Visit my website at www.rosiecooper.net/PubOfTheYear to start logging your nominations and votes before the deadline of midnight on Friday, September 20."

Nominations for the Parliamentary Pub of The Year awards can be made on Twitter @ParliPubOTY.

Rosie Cooper is inviting West Lancs pubgoers to nominate their favourite watering hole for a Parliamentary award.

Pet hamster inspired budding children's writer's book

A BUDDING children's fiction author from Ormskkirk was inspired by her pet hamster for her latest book.

Tasha Williams has published her online e-book, Chutney and Cheese on Amazon Kindle.

Described as a fun, rhyming tale, it tells about a cheeky hamster and her journey to get to the fridge for some cheese.

And Tasha says she was inspired to write the book by the antics of her own pet.

The 26-year-old, who currently works as a claims handler at an insurance agency, graduated with a creative writing degree from Edge Hill University in 2014.

Her last e-book, The Snow Kitten, was a bestseller in its category in 2013.

She said: "I've wanted to be a writer since I was young, and while I've tried many different genres, I always end up coming back to children's writing.

"I loved reading so much when I was young and want to be able to create stories that young people can enjoy and engage with, as I did.

"The latest book is based on Chutney, my partner Stephen and my pet hamster. She's quite a character which I aimed to show in the story to which I am hoping to write a sequel in the near future.

"I'm also currently working on my first novel for children aged 10 and up, which will be also published in e-book, and hopefully also as a paperback, through Amazon. Although the release date has yet to be confirmed."

Budding author Tasha Williams.

Can you give a home to 'North West's loneliest cat'?

Report by Danielle Thompson

STAFF at a West Lancs animal charity are marking a sad milestone – it's a whole year since an 'adorable' four-year-old cat was brought in to live with them!

Sally McDerby from Woodlands Animal Sanctuary in Sandy Lane, Holmeswood, said: "We have an anniversary this week, but the team do not feel like celebrating as we believe that we have the North West's loneliest cat.

"Harry, a beautifully handsome cat has been living at the sanctuary for a full year, as despite his best efforts he has been overlooked by every single person who has fostered a cat from Woodlands in the last 12 months.

"He was brought in by one of the sanctuary's members of staff because he had been abandoned by his family when they moved away and was left to roam the streets around where he used to live.

"Some local children were taking amusement from throwing stones at him, while all Harry wanted was a family he could live, play and sleep with.

Harry has been at Woodlands Animal Sanctuary for a year.

"Harry plays exactly as you would expect a strong four-year-old to play.

"We would therefore like an experienced cat owner to take Harry under their wing, someone who doesn't have young children and who is not too elderly.

"He ideally needs his own home with a garden where he can play with his toys, interact when he wants to and have space when he wants.

"Harry loves his food and as such any new owner would have to watch how much he eats, as his waistline was expanding more than was healthy for him.

"However, due to his playful nature he loves interacting with toys and so will often have his food in a treat ball, which allows him to play and move around more whilst enjoying his food.

Protective

"The volunteers at the sanctuary think that Harry is just misunderstood and say that when you give him a brush he turns into a real softy.

"So if you think your life could have a large, Harry-shaped hole in it then please contact Woodlands, either by phone on 01704 823293 or by email at info@animalsanctuary.org.uk.

" And please be ready for the team to ask you lots of questions because they are very protective and will only allow him to go to a home where they think he will fit into happily!"

There's still time for youngsters to take part in Reading Journey

THERE'S still time for children aged four to 14 to take part in the Lancashire Reading Journey, known as the SCART Club, and take on a number of fun tasks along the way.

The Lancashire County Council initiative, now in its fifth year, runs until Saturday, September 28.

SCART stands for Science, Culture, Active, Reading and Technology. It is free to take part and aims to keep children reading and entertained throughout the summer holidays.

To join in children just need to visit a library and complete two tasks from each of the five SCART themes. One task for every theme is reading a book of their choice.

Feedback

On joining the SCART Club children will receive a task book, and will need to complete all five tasks to receive their rewards of stickers and prizes.

County Councillor Peter Buckley, the county council's cabinet member for community and cultural services, said: "We've been receiving great feedback from the SCART Club this year, and over 6,200 children have taken part so far.

"There's still a few weeks to go before the deadline and it really is a great way to encourage children to keep reading and learning.

"As well as being fun, it is also a good way to boost children's literacy, which not only helps with their education but also improves their life chances in the future."

Those taking part in the SCART Club can make use of one free family entry to a Lancashire museum.

It's free to join the library and under-16s can join by themselves.

Meanwhile young people aged 12 to 24 also have the opportunity to volunteer as a 'Reading Hack' at their local library, as part of the Reading Journey. This role is to support children on the Reading Journey, and help with organising and running events.

To volunteer, visit bit.ly/readhack

For more information about the SCART Club, visit www.lancashire.gov.uk/libraries-and-archives/libraries/reading-journey.aspx, visit your local library or telephone 0300 123 6703.

Breathe Easy group hear talk on role of community matrons

WEST Lancashire community matrons, Louise Walker and Karen Staniforth, were guest speakers at the latest meeting of the West Lancashire and Southport Breathe Easy group.

In West Lancashire this service is operated under Virgin Care NHS with three matrons in the area, each covering a distinct district.

Community matrons are senior nurses with advanced health assessment/prescribing skills who support people with long-term conditions or a range of complex conditions, in their own home.

The matrons' aim is to help support people to improve their quality of life. People do not need to be house-bound to be eligible for help from a community matron.

Community matrons undertake assessments focusing on a patient's health care history, carry out physical examinations and develop a care plan based on individual needs.

They will support patients through periods of acute and chronic illness to help prevent avoidable emergency hospital admissions; educate and support patients to become experts in recognising and managing their symptoms; provide medication advice and support and act as a single point of contact, to co-ordinate care and signpost to other relevant services as required.

Louise and Karen advised members not to hesitate to contact the community matron team if they have any queries regarding their health, medicines or conditions. However, they stressed they are not an emergency service and are not to be regarded as a substitute for one's GP.

Referral to the Community Matron Service can be from your GP but West Lancs patients can also self-refer by phoning direct on 0300 247 0011. A similar service exists in Sefton, operated by Lancashire Care, but there is no self-referral system available.

West Lancs community matrons Karen Staniforth and Louise Walker at the meeting.

Patricia Ireland from the West Lancashire and Southport Breathe Easy group said: "Louise and Karen's talk was very interesting and we are very grateful that they kindly gave up valuable time to visit us.

"A number of members stayed behind for two hours to help Dr Philip Alton and colleagues who are researching to produce a Chest Sentinel Device. Dr Alton has since told us that our members' contributions were most valuable."

The next meeting of the group will be on Monday, September 16, starting at 11am at the Girl Guide HQ, Green Lane, Ormskirk, nextdoor to Ormskirk Rugby Club when the guest speaker will be Melanie Reardon, specialist physiotherapist from the Pulmonary Rehabilitation Clinic at Ormskirk Hospital.

Anyone with respiratory problems, and their family members, carers or friends, are welcome to attend.

A scene from Chicago

Chicago was 'one of the musical highlights of year'

Review by Ron Ellis

Chicago
SDC Youth Theatre at Little Theatre

I HAVE seen many productions by the SDC Youth Theatre over the years and the talent and enthusiasm of the casts has always impressed me.

That's not to say I have always been quite as impressed with the choice of material. Skellig, Frankenstein and Company were not my idea of entertainment but the performances by the youngsters in all the shows have always been first class and when you see them in a musical like Chicago you realise what a wealth of young talent there is in the company, showing the potential for a successful career in the theatre.

This was the High School edition of Chicago, a shortened version of the original 'X' rated script, omitting certain songs with 'adult themes', cutting offensive swear words and covering the more revealing costumes yet retaining all the vitality and excitement of the initial score.

What remains is lots of unforgettable numbers evocative of the 1920's Jazz Age, Razzle Dazzle, All that jazz, Mr. Cellophane, Roxie, etc. played by a superb 12-piece band led by Chris Rimmer with some energetic dancing choreographed by Pippa Morris.

James Henderson gave a most assured performance in the Richard Gere role as silver-tongued lawyer, Billy Flynn, who agrees to defend Roxie Hart on a charge of murdering her lover, putting the blame on her husband, Amos. Flynn is also defending Velma Kelly on a similar charge.

Isobel Twist and Eleanor Gillow are in their element as The Merry Murderesses, Roxie and Velma, who are eventually acquitted and celebrate by taking to the stage as a musical partnership.

Ben Ackers perfected his hangdog expression as the hapless Amos with sterling performances from Harry Gascoigne as the Judge, Lucy Brindle (Mary Sunshine) and Lydia Roberts (Mama Morton).

The expert direction of the inimitable Stephen Hughes-Alty, assisted by Sian Woolley, made this one of the musical highlights of the year.

Star Review 9 out of 10. An exhilarating show.

Blood Brothers is a 'captivating show'

Review by Malcolm Hindle

THE return of Blood Brothers to its spiritual home of Liverpool is always a theatrical event to remember.

And so it proved once more when the acclaimed show arrived at the Empire for a 12-night run.

Blood Brothers is one of theatreland's big hitters but nowhere does it receive a bigger and warmer welcome than in its home city.

Lyn Paul triumphed in her return to a role she has forged unbreakable ties with but this is, sadly, the final time the former New Seekers singer is performing the part she has become synonymous with.

At the Empire she was simply breathtaking.

From 'Marilyn Monroe' to 'Easy Terms' and the emotionally-charged tragic finale 'Tell Me It's Not True' she carried off the production's showpiece numbers in the definitive style that has made the part of 'Mrs Johnstone' virtually her own since she first appeared in Blood Brothers way back in 1997 in the West End. She has reprised the role regularly over the years and now, at 70 years of age, this is her Blood Brothers swansong. What a way to say farewell.

But it would be too easy to say Ms Paul stole the show. She did, of course, but local actor Alex Patmore's Mickey-take as one of Mrs Johnstone's sons had the audience enthralled.

From the young Mickey - care free and happy-go-lucky - to the hurt and tormented soul that he was to become as an out-of-work adult consumed with depression, Patmore pulled off a quite sensational performance, tugging at every heartstring along the way as he battled the demons that life threw Mickey's way.

Alex, who played Bobby Willis in Cilla - the Musical, trained at the Liverpool Theatre School. He was outstanding here in his home city.

Robbie Scotcher as the 'Narrator' carried the whole thing through with cool aplomb - his reprise of 'Shoes Upon the Table' sending a constant shiver of emotion through the audience.

A scene from Blood Brothers

The story may now be a familiar one but it has lost none of its energy - or poignancy - as the years have rolled on. Twin brothers, Mickey and Edward, are separated at birth and brought up in completely different environments in Liverpool - Mrs Johnstone keeping Mickey while Edward is 'adopted' by the wealthy family Mrs Johnstone cleans for.

Those environments take the twins to opposite ends of the social spectrum, but they remain 'Blood Brothers' thanks to chance meetings throughout their young lives. They both fall in love with the same girl, causing a rift in their friendship and, as the story unfolds, leads to the death of both brothers. That's no spoiler by the way, as the show opens in sombre mood with the brothers lying dead in the street, their tragic tale about to unfold.

Other stand-out performances came from Joel Benedict as Edward, Danielle Corlass as girlfriend, Linda, and Danny Taylor as Mickey's older brother, Sammy.

Willy Russell's Blood Brothers shows no sign yet of fading away. Far from it, but catch it while you can in its home city - it runs at the Empire until September 14.

10/10 - captivating and exceptional - it remains a must-see theatre experience.

23rd December 1957 -
9th September 2018

It's been a painful, lonely sad year since
Every day we all ask ourselves why?
We love and miss you so badly it's hard to keep the tears dry and only you knew why.
Every day we wish we can cuddle and hold you tight so we could keep you close by.
We know our family in Heaven are doing this right now with their arms around you and loving you so this gives us all some comfort that you're smiling and at peace now.

In our hearts and thoughts forever.
We miss you
every day.
In loving memory,
Daughters, Mother,
Sisters, Brother and 6
Grandchildren.

PRAYERS

DEAR SACRED HEART OF JESUS

In the past I have asked for many favours.
This time I ask for one special favour.
(mention it)

Take it dear heart of Jesus and place it
within your own broken heart where your Father sees it. Then, in his merciful eyes, it will become your favour,
not mine.

Amen.

Say this prayer for three days, promise publication and your favour will be granted.
Never to be failed.

P.J.G.

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN

Never known to fail.

O most beautiful flower of Mount Carmel, faithful Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this necessity, O Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my Mother, O Holy Mary Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succour me in my necessity.

(Make Request).

There are none that can withstand your powers. Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3 Times).

Sweet Mother, I place this cause in your hands (3 times).

Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine.

Champion MOTORS

NEWS DESK · 01704 392 400
www.champnews.com

The early versions of the MINI can now be snapped up for well under £1000

David Simister marks ten years of his Champ column

A LOT can happen in ten years. Think back to what was happening back in September 2009. Gordon Brown was running the country, Dizzee Rascal was at number one and people were starting to get panicky about swine flu. Oh, and a motoring column popped up in The Champion for the first time, written by someone whose chief transport to our Lord Street offices was a rust-ridden Mini.

I re-read that first column the other day – which covers the tried 'n' tested petrolhead game of having a ten-car garage, but a budget of just £10,000 to fill it with – and it surprised just how much some of them have moved on in price. There's no way, for instance, that you'd be able to pick up a Jaguar XJ6 Series III (even a really ropey one) for under a grand now; these days, you'd be looking at its Nineties equivalent, the X300, and you'd be better be prepared to tackle some rotten sills and tired electrics while you're at it.

The days of Fiat Coupés being readily available for buttons are gone too, and as much as there are still cheap Alfa 156 Sportwagons out there you'll have a job finding one.

Even the Renault 5 that I ran for a few months during this column's early days has gone up in price – argue all you like about whether it's a classic car yet, but simple market economics dictates that with the few people wanting one being greater than the number now on sale, you'll struggle to get one for under a grand now.

But the one that's more surprising to look back on than any other is the Mini I regularly needed Triple Plus Members' Club Platinum Premium levels of breakdown cover for – I thought I'd done well selling that admittedly tired Mayfair for £800, but these days that wouldn't even get you a non-running project.

It would've been a bizarre thing to think back in 2009, but nowadays the cheapest route into Mini ownership is by picking up one of its flashier, BMW-engineered Noughties successors.

For all the talk of bloated Countryman models and pizza dish-sized speedometers I reckon it's now a lot of car for the money, and the interesting thing is how big a part the 2001-on model played in the Mini's 60th anniversary celebrations. I went to the International Mini Meeting in Bristol a few weeks ago and the newer models were absolutely everywhere, and the hostility that I remember from the Mini die-hards of only a few years ago seems to have subdued.

It's worth remembering too that the original Mini's landmark 5.3m production run is set to be beaten by the BMW-engineered model at some point next year, so it's not as though the nation hasn't taken the new car firmly into its bosom.

You'd need the best £3-4k to pick up a decent classic Mini these days but play it smart and you can have a BMW-generation Cooper, with an MoT, for well under £750.

I suspect it'd be rather better at getting me to work in the mornings, too…

David Simister is the editor of Classic Car Weekly

ADVERTISING FEATURE

06 Family Welcomes Mitsubishi to Skelmersdale Site

Family-owned new and used dealership 06 Vauxhall, welcomes Mitsubishi to their range at their Inchfield site in Skelmersdale.

06, which has been trading in the car and van industry for over 15 years, became an authorised Mitsubishi dealer following the success of their Vauxhall sites, and launched officially August 23.

The business offers a full service for Mitsubishi customers looking for new or used cars and vans in the area, also offering a delivery service on request.

Current Vauxhall customers can expect "business as usual" at the state-of-the art Skelmersdale showroom, too.

All Vauxhall customers' needs will still be met during the welcoming of the Mitsubishi marque to the premises. New and used Vauxhall vehicle sales will continue in addition to a full aftersales operation including; body shop, courtesy cars, finance, parts, servicing and valeting.

Franchise Manager, Chris Hall said: "We're proud to welcome new and used Mitsubishi models to our line up and become the new name for Mitsubishi in the North West, as we continue to grow the 06 family.

"The Mitsubishi marque comes as an addition to our current sales and aftersales operation currently in place for Vauxhall.

"New and existing Vauxhall customers can expect outstanding customer service from our friendly team at the showroom, along with the full aftersales and repairs service here in Skelmersdale."

Formby recorded a six wicket home win over Rainhill, Northamptonshire's Luke Procter top scored with an unbeaten 73*for the visitors as they were dismissed for 143, with Ben Aitchison taking 3-49.Ireland skipper Will Porterfield 31 and Dave Atkinson 30 then laid the foundations for Aitchison to guide his team home with an unbeaten 62* as the hosts reached 146-4.

Southport & Birkdale's Isaac Lea hit his maiden top flight century (116 with 16x4 & 3x6) as he and Brad Yates 48 enabled the hosts to declare on 192-6 at Trafalgar Road, with Paul Jenkins taking 3-68.

In reply, visiting skipper Sion Morris top scored with 40 but the rest of his team were sent spinning by Chris Cunningham 5-35 and Gary Keedy 4-59 as the Welshmen were dismissed for 150, the win lifted S&B 14 points clear of the relegation zone and a step closer to securing their top flight status.

Skem hopeful of causing cup upset when they host Wythenshawe in FA Vase

SKELMERSDALE United are preparing for cup action when they host Wythenshawe this Friday in the FA Vase, writes Neil Leatherbarrow.

Again this Saturday sees West Lancashire as a football free zone, last week our local teams were without a fixture and it is the same this weekend. Burscough are without a game until Monday 16th September, Skelmersdale do play in the FA Vase this Friday night, playing Wythenshawe Town at Volair Park Prescot, kick off 7.45pm.

Those Linnets fans who do fancy a trip could watch them tonight (Wednesday, September 11) when they are away to Oldham based AVRO.

It will be a vital game for Burscough too, they are presently 14th in the table with five points from five games, while AVRO are third from bottom on three points from five games.

Tom Ince will return to face Skem

A win would put Burscough into a comfortable mid-table position, but defeat would leave them seriously looking over their shoulders at the teams behind them.

Linnets manager Nick Matthews has done a good job since he took over in August but is in the midst of a complete team rebuild at Victoria Park and it could be said that the team could do without the pressure a drop down the table would bring especially as they have two difficult away games to follow.

Skelmersdale's match on Friday night should be an exciting one, Wythenshawe Town are fifth in the North West Counties First Division South they have won four and drawn two of their six league games so far, in the last round they beat Goole AFC 5-2.

Perhaps equally significant is the fact that they have scored 21 league goals in 8 league games, so the Skelmersdale defence will have to be on their best form.

Burscough's game on Monday is as far away as it is possible to get in the North West Counties Premier League, Whitchurch Alport. The unbeaten Shropshire men are going very well, they are second in the league table and showed that they are a very good footballing side when they played Skelmersdale on Bank Holiday Monday.

Skelmersdale are scheduled a midweek league game on Tuesday, September 17 when they are away to Irlam.

The team from alongside the Manchester Ship canal had a superb win in the FA Cup on Saturday, 4-0 at Charnock Richard and as a result have drawn a plumb draw in the next round, York City at home, so Skem will be hoping that they have their minds elsewhere.

But they might just be trying hard to prove themselves for the big day against one of the biggest clubs in non-league football.

Next Saturday, September 21 both teams have games, Skelmersdale will play Longridge Town at Prescot, while Burscough face a tough one as they are away to the favourites to win the North West Counties League Northwich Victoria who play at Witton Albion's ground.

One interesting player that will be in opposition to Skem from Longridge will be Tom Ince, who was a very popular member of the Skem team back in the Northern Premier League Premier Division days, he will be made very welcome.

Tennis players serve up record year on the court

THREE of Aughton's league tennis teams finished top of their respective divisions in 2019 and have gained promotion.

These are the Liverpool League Ladies 1st Team and Men's 3rd Team, along with the Southport League Mixed 2nd team. A newly formed Liverpool League Ladies 2nd team were runners up in their first season and have also gained promotion.

Both the Southport League Mixed 1st team and the Liverpool League Men's 1st team, having gained promotion to the top divisions last year maintained their positions both finishing the season midway in those divisions.

Club President, Helena Culshaw said: "All our eight league teams performed notably well this season with none languishing in the relegation zones.

"This is testament to a great deal of hard work and commitment with team players practising hard all year round, often in poor weather conditions.

"The Club is also enjoying the benefits of a strong coaching programme, under the supervision of Ben Obong, Head Coach who joined us in 2017."
